Antonella Di Nocera is a film producer and director of the non-profit organization ARCI MOVIE in Naples. After a long academic career in Theatre Studies in Italy, London (Master at Middlesex University) and a FULBRIGHT Grant at CUNY University of New York, she started a strong engagement for social development and cultural promotion in Napoli, with a peculiar interest for visual arts and film education and promotion. Since then, she produced various projects of social documentaries in collaboration with strong partners like Indigo Film and Teatri Uniti, among these, the film by Agostino Ferrente e Giovanni Piperno Intervista a mia madre.

Since 2000, the experiments of Movie lab and the project of a Light Cinema Movement show her potential of film-making with kids and young people. In the field of education she runs a huge project involving the big and various outskirts of Naples.

In these last years, the productions engaged put together the need to let the territories speak through a true cinema able to emphasize the recent history of our nation and communities and the difficult side of the minimal life of people.

At present, she works as a film producer, president of the company Parallelo 41 produzioni, General director of Arci Movie- non profit organization for culture and film promotion.
